DISMISSAL ASKED

BY PRATT

OF THE INJUNCTION

James W. Pratt, Territorial Commissioner of Public Lands, through the Attorney General's office, this afternoon filed a motion to dissolve the temporary injunction issued against him and the Governor to restrain them from disposing of the Lanai lands. He makes his motion on the grounds that the injunction does not run in the name of the Territory of Hawaii and that the bill in equity upon which it is based does not state facts sufficient to warrant it; that it does not appear that Pratt is doing or about to do anything contrary to law; that McCandless has no legal capacity to bring the bill in equity or that he has sufficient interest in the subject matter of the bill to entitle him to an injunction or to any relief in a court of equity.

The Land Commissioner also filed a demurrer to the bill which takes the same general grounds as the motion to dissolve and prays the bill in equity may be dissolved.

ANSWER IS FILED

BY TERRITORY

IN LANAI CASE

Lack of jurisdiction is the principal claim made by the Territory of Hawaii, through Attorney General Peters, to the injunction issued by Judge Robinson last Saturday, restraining Governor Carter from disposing of the Lanai lands. The answer claims also the injunction is an unwarranted and illegal assumption of judicial control of the official acts of the Governor of the Territory of Hawaii. The Territory asks, therefore, that the injunction and restraining order be dismissed.

WHERE IS ADDISON DAY?

"He was tall and thin built when he went away from Sandy Creek, Maine, 55 years ago," writes Miss Jessie C. Day to Governor Carter, in describing the man she wants to find. The man is Addison Parsons Day, and he is supposed to have come to Hawaii more than half a century ago. By this time he is somewhere in the neighborhood of 75 or 80 years of age, and it is more than possible that if he is still alive and living in the Territory the climate has agreed with him so well that, although he may still be tall, he may not be thin built.

If any one knows the whereabouts, he will greatly oblige Miss Jessie C. Day by writing to her at Sandy Creek, Maine.

DIVIDEND INCREASED

San Francisco, Dec. 12.—At the opening of the Stock and Bond Exchange session this morning it was announced that the dividend on Hutchinson would be increased on January 10, 1907, to 15 cents per share instead of 12½ cents, as formerly.

A Chinese passenger on the P. M. S. S. China named Ah Door, en route to the Orient for the purpose of spending his vacation, and accompanied by his wife and son, was refused permission to come ashore. He stated that he was an American citizen, and produced his papers to that effect. Notwithstanding, he was not allowed to land. His desire to come ashore was simply for the purpose of purchasing a deck chair for his wife and some Hawaiian fruit for his son. He eventually obtained the desired commodities through the kindness of friends and officers on board the ship, and expressed himself as having no further desire to become closer acquainted with these tropic isles.

George D. Gear, defendant in the suit instituted by Frederick A. Wickett, last month to recover the sum of $485.20, today filed his answer to the suit, in which he denies all the allegations made. This is the case in which Wickett claims to be the owner of a promissory note made out to himself for the sum named, and later transferred to Wickett.

In the matter of the estate of Mele Kunulakea, deceased, the claimants, Aimoku, I. Keoki and Kikau today moved the court that a jury decide as to whether Mele Kunulakea was legitimate or illegitimate, and as to whether or not the claimants are her heirs at law if she be found legitimate.

N. J. Lewis, whom Lazaro Salmunca is suing for $5000 for the alienation of his wife's affections, today filed his answer in the Circuit Court. He denies part of the charges, and leaves the plaintiff to prove the rest.

MAIL AND TURKEYS ON THE ALAMEDA

The steamship Alameda arrived this morning at 11:30 from the Coast bringing 97 sacks of mail and a great store of good things for the Christmas diners of the residents of Honolulu. She was a little late for two reasons. In the first place she was held an hour and a half in San Francisco waiting for mail and this morning, while coming through the Molokai channel about 3 o'clock a heavy mist settled over the sea and Captain Dowdell was forced to slow down to prevent any chance of accident.

The Alameda brought 35 first-class passengers for this city and 39 in the steerage. Her freight amounts to 1,420 tons.

Judge Weaver, of the Court of Land Registration, today granted the petition of the J. B. Atherton Estate to register and confirm title to the land located on Young, King and Alapa streets, valued at $64,000. A similar petition was also granted the estate in the case of the Pacific Heights property.

Owing to the lateness of the Alameda's arrival Henry May & Co. will remain open this evening so that the new goods may be selected that came by that boat.
